

We caught up with some members of the local community at our Information Evening on Thursday 23 January, to hear their thoughts on the new campus:

Keith Raffan, from Falkirk, said: "I think it is beautiful. It is filled with light and is going to be a fantastic advantage for the town of Falkirk in the years to come. I'm sure the people of Falkirk will love it."

Grace Goodsir, who lives in Alloa, but works in Alloa as a Trainee Careers Advisor, said: "I think it is modern, spacious and bright. Having had the tour, it will give me more confidence and encouragement to talk to people looking for careers advice about what is on offer here at the Falkirk Campus."

"It's more advanced on the technical side and the whole health and wellbeing ethos of the college will boost both those who attend, and the wider community."

Linda Anderson, who works in Alloa, said: "It's definitely a stunning new building. It is well designed and spacious, which I would imagine learners will enjoy. I think it has the potential for becoming a real hub for the community."

Diana Donnelly who lives near the campus, said: "It's amazing. I worked for 25 years in the old campus and it is such a big difference. The sheer size of it, and all the lovely space ... I think it will definitely benefit the local area."

Gordon Davie who lives across the road from the new Falkirk Campus, said: "It is a lot better than the old campus where I used to study. Everything seems so spaced out and not crammed in. It is all brand new, nice and bright and clean."

Euan McMeeking, who is a sixth year pupil at Larbert High School and has applied for a degree course at FVC, said: "It is a state-of-the-art facility and makes me want to study here full-time."

The new campus will play a key role in the local community!
